When walking into a David James Custom Builder home, there's one signature design giveaway: The unique juxtaposition of contemporary and rustic forms and finishes blended in a forward-thinking way. This approach also applies to kitchens and baths which, president DJ Palmore says, are integral to every new build. "Clients want these spaces combined into larger open floor plans for ease of living," he says. "Whether for family time or entertaining, kitchens live well when not segregated." With a focus on quality, craftsmanship and only the highest-quality materials, Palmore and his team ensure every client, vendor and subcontractor feels like they are part of the team, and it shows in the results. "Our mission is to build luxury, custom homes that we know will bring years of enjoyment, value and pride of ownership," he says.

"Kitchens and baths need to not only live well, but function properly for the way the owner uses them."

DJ PALMORE: A BUILDER'S POINT OF VIEW

List three materials/products your clients love for the kitchen and bath. Natural materials, high-end appliances and durable surfaces

A spa lover, parents of young children or an on-the-go relaxaphobe—what's the one thing they all need in their bathroom? A soaking tub

A gourmet chef, an entertainer or a takeout lover—what's the one thing they all need in their kitchen? A great refrigerator

Which shades are trending now? Neutrals

Share three easy ways to refresh a kitchen and/or bath design? New cabinet doors, paint and hardware

1. & 2. In this master bathroom, a custom mirror by David James Custom Builder, lighting by Circa, plumbing and hardware by Acero Bella, tile by Ann Sacks, furnishings by TC Interiors and art by Dimmitt Contemporary Art come together to create a modern, yet warm sanctuary of style.
